COP IN GUN DUEL WITH SKULKER

A gunfight was staged between a patrolman and a weird looking man in the Fens at day-break today.
The wind whistled, the rain beat down while the rubber-clad cop and the overcoated stranger sat at each other from across the Aqueduct bridge near the Westland avenue entrance to the Fens.
Nobody was struck and the stranger faded to safety in a maze.

LOANED $5,000 TO VETS' BUREAU HEAD

Washington, Oct. 24.—Principals of the Thompson-Black Company loaned $5,000 to Charles R. Forbes, who was director of the Veterans' Bureau at a time when the company was seeking a contract for the construction of a government hospital. E. R. Forbes, a partner of Philadelphia, a former agent of the company, testified today at the Senate investigation of the Veterans' Bureau.
Mr. Mortimer said it was near the end of the long negotiations for the contract that Mr. Forbes told him at a hotel in Washington that Mrs. Forbes had gone abroad and that he was hard up and desired a loan. The witness said Forbes fixed the sum at $5,000 and he arranged with James W. Black and J. W. Thompson, who then were at the hotel, to advance the money.
Mortimer also told the committee that the negotiations for the contract with Forbes were marked by a number of "drinking" parties in Washington, Atlantic City, Philadelphia and New York. He declared the former director was a frequent visitor at the Veterans' Bureau.

BOY, STOLEN SHIP AFRICA IN 1916, IN BIG GALE, IS FOUND, GREW SAFE

Amazing Sequel Revealed in East Milton Tragedy and Romance
The amazing story of Andrew Griffin. It reads like a chapter written by Dickens. Its beginnings are in the town of East Milton.
It begins with a kidnapping and it ends with Andrew Griffin walking into the arms of his mother seven years later with another boy who went there to buy coals.
He was just a wandering boy, homeless, penniless, alone.
His mother recognized him and now her hungry heart is singing with happiness.
Andy Griffin, the wandering boy, is home at last with a story that includes the lights and shadows that are the stuff of dreams. So amazing is it that it would be impossible to sum it up in a phrase. It must be read in all its details, down to the last sentence.

Daniel J. Daley

FATHER DIES IN HOTEL

Attorney Daniel J. Daley of Boston was a friend of Andy's father and he heard the story from the elder Griffin's lips a few hours before he died in a Boston hotel, worn with years of searching for his son.
Mr. Daley has told it to the Boston American.
It begins on a day when little Andy, then eight years old, almost was electrocuted in the arena, and his family moved to Rockland for fear he might be killed. They lived in East Milton, and Andy's father was the first man to operate a taxi cab in Boston.
On September 2, 1916, according to the boy's mother, the wife of a prominent Rockland resident came to the boy's father.

GRILLED BY DEFENCE LAWYERS

Sobs as Spectators Laugh When Cross-Examiner Makes Her Hold Up Her Hands
Mrs. Lillian Hardy Reese burst into sobs today under the fierce cross-examination of Joseph P. Walsh, attorney for William J. Corcoran, in the now famous blackmail case.
The tears flowed laughter at the expense of the woman and caused the court to call a recess.
Yesterday she testified that Harry E. Levenson, accused with "Big Bill" Corcoran as a leader of the alleged Boston blackmail ring, said to her that he had made $10,000 out of blackmailing and didn't intend to stop until he had made a million.
Today under cross-examination, Walsh said to Mrs. Reese, "Hold up your hands." She placed them on the witness stand.

WRANGLE OVER ARGUMENTS FOR SACCO

After a forenoon's session of wrangling between counsel for the defense and Judge Webster Thayer, arguments were heard today on motions of Louis Peiser and Mrs. Lola Andrews, among those initiated in the proceedings seeking a new trial at Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti in Norfolk Superior Court. Judge Thayer informed Attorney Fred Moore for the defense, when Moore wanted to file a statement by Deputy Sheriff Ethel W. Lee, that the line must be drawn somewhere. October 15 was the day set some time ago as the last for the defense to file affidavits. Judge Thayer objected to the introduction of additional affidavits which has been imminent since the appointed "deadline."

A statement filed by Moore in answer to a reaffirmation filed by the trial Attorney Williams contained reference to the prosecuting official.

"If those accusations against com-

CHARGES KLAN PAID EXPENSES OF LEGISLATORS

Oklahoma City, Oct. 24. (A.P.)—The bitterest fight precipitated since the convening of the special session of the Oklahoma Legislature broke on the floor of the House today when Representative J. W. Callahan, Democrat, Latimer County, introduced a resolution providing for an investigation to determine who paid the expenses of the House members when they attempted to convene Sept. 24 and were dispersed by military authorities upon orders from Governor Walton. Callahan is a Walton supporter.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

Representative J. B. Phillips, Democrat, Cleveland County, assailed Callahan for his reflection on the House members who sought to answer the call for the session that was blocked by the Governor. He demanded an immediate investigation of the Latimer Klan's charge and declared that if it proved untrue he would move Callahan's suspension from the House.

Callahan rejoined that he had the proof and dared the House let him produce his testimony.

The resolution was adopted after a brief but acrimonious debate and was referred to a committee investigating conduct of House members.

WALTON PLANS FIGHT

The resolution sought especially an inquiry to determine whether the Ku Klux Klan or certain "interests" in Tulsa had contributed funds for the attempted session.

Governor Walton, impeached executive visited the State House today but had nothing to say. Political followers intimated that he planned a legal battle over his suspension. The Legislature is prepared to start a counter action if the ousted governor goes to court.

HALT DEPORTING OF "FIRE MACHINE" MAN

On the basis of an order from Washington to deport Charles Blamfield, alleged anarchist, and maker of "fire-machines," a stay was obtained by a local attorney.

A local attorney, Francis Jennings, who applied for a habeas writ, declared that several points of law have cropped up in the government's charges. Blamfield's handling of his client's case, which are not just to his liking.

Blamfield is fifty years old and lived at No. 1413 Washington street at the time of his arrest last April. His home was raided on a search warrant and several articles not specified in the warrant were confiscated. Attorney Jennings is expected to base objections on that.

GROCER'S AUTO GOES ON MYSTERY JAUNT

An automobile owned by Frank Cedar, Winthrop grocer of Shirley street, was found on Winthrop Beach, 29 yards distance from where it was parked by Cedar when he made a delivery to a house on Shore Drive. The travels of the machine are a mystery. Police are investigating. At the time, spray, driven by a girl, was being tossed far upon the drive and the street was under two inches of water.

BABSON STUDENTS WIN BUS FIGHT

The long fight for a bus line to accommodate the students and the office staff of the Babson Institute organization at Wellesley ended today with victory for George W. Babson et al. The line will be operated from Wellesley Hills directly to the institution at a distance of a mile. Objection to the line was voiced by residents of Annot road on the ground that it would change a residential section into a commercial center.

HARVARD GETS NEW $100,000 SCHOLARSHIP

With view to fostering better relations between capital and labor, the heirs of Jacob Wertheim, 94, of New York, have given $100,000 to Harvard University to establish a scholarship of industrial relations. The income from this gift, $5,000, will be awarded each year to the man or woman considered best qualified to conduct original research work in the field of industrial cooperation.

Not Room Enough in the Department to Hang Up All the Overcoats That Have Arrived For This Sale.

If you see piles and piles of overcoats, even on the tops of the long fixtures, please remember this is the big event of the year.

Now Begins

Our Annual SALE MEN'S Big Warm Woolly OVERCOATS

All at $39.50

If it were not against our policy to quote values in our advertising what we could tell you would be important. But we never say what the regular price is, because of the exaggeration and lack of dependence that surrounds that practice.

But the values that we offer in our sales are all the greater because of this restraint and rigid adherence to facts.

We Did Not Carry Over in Stock One Winter Overcoat From Last Year. Every Coat in This Sale Is New—a New 1923-1924 Overcoat.

Every Overcoating All Wool

Tested and certified by our consulting chemists, Arthur D. Little, Inc., Cambridge.

We began selecting and listing the materials last Spring. We began having them made up last Spring. We got these Winter overcoats at last Spring's dull season price concessions. There's the basis of the big values. Don't go by the low sale price. Go by the values we secure by big planning, big buying and dull season making.

We Looked at More Than 500 Different Fabrics

65 Patterns Out of the 500 Selected for This Sale

Plenty of Handsome Plaids This Year.
Plenty of Browns, Grays, Greens, Blues.
Plenty of Dark Color Overcoats.
Plenty of Light Color Overcoats.

Ulsters for $39.50

CHORUS GIRLS SCORNING DARING ROLES AND ZIPPY SHOWS

CROP FOR 1924 WILL INSIST ON PLENTY OF CLOTHES

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
International News Service.

New York, Oct. 24.—The 1924 chorus girl will wear more clothes than does the late edition of 1923. Dorothy Bryant, executive president of the Chorus Girls Equity Association, predicted in an interview today.

"Previously the American stage," she asserted, "has been the theatre of the 'new' girl. Why, the girls themselves—that is, the better class ('the 30 per cent')—already are turning thumbs down on the snappy, the daring doublets, the beautiful but flimsy 'suits'."

Dramatic critics, too, are shaking an apprehensive head over the trend in the theatre and cinema, eager to legislate and censor, fearing "indecent" nudity.

"Leave it to the girls," she said. "The average chorus girl is a good girl—no different from the stenographer, the shop girl or the school teacher," said Mrs. Bryant. "At heart she's good and clean and she has ideals."

WONT LOWER STANDARDS.
"If there were 1,000 chorus girls out at jobs in New York today it would be mighty hard to line up a chorus of 'nautes'."

"Those that do get out from the small minority—the less than 10 per cent. Ours is an overworked profession. Girls out of a job must do something. Then, too, some of the girls get cash-hardened."

"But the 90 per cent. are sound. They won't lower their standards. There is a gradually growing 'artistry' that will not stand for the improper."

"The time is coming and coming when the chorus girl who does the unbecoming in musical reviews will be automatically regarded to the realm of burlesque."

SMALL TOWN'S TO BLAME.
"Next season the girls will be asked not so much, how do you look, but what can you do? Beauty is to be supplanted by talent."

Mrs. Bryant recalled that when the Amazon type chorus girl made her first appearance in lights, twenty or twenty-five years ago, the chorus was shocked. The shock wore off, however, and the last year or two, girls have given way to talent. It's really been the small town towns that have been the cause of the chorus girl's downfall. When in the big city, she demands a zippy show—something that makes the family of the chorus girl wonder what she is doing. But the chorus girls have had enough of that, said Mrs. Bryant. "It simply can't last."

IGNORED SIGNALS
CAUSE OF WRECK

Taunton, Oct. 24.—The freight wreck at Taunton Junction Monday was caused, according to official report, by a hearing in the office of the division superintendent. Two men lost their lives. According to testimony of employees the engine and "yellow board" signals were set when the train passed.

Many House Parties Keep Society Busy, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

EVEN the greatest members of the North Shore colony couldn't complain of the past weekend, which was one of the biggest of the entire season along the shore.

With the annual Fall steeplechase of the Myopia Hunt Club taking place on Saturday at the Palmer estate in Topsfield, a host of house parties, dinners and several jolly dances were held in connection with this important sporting event.

Billy Colledge—youngest son of Mrs. T. Jefferson Colledge's trip of some—gave a dance for some three hundred guests at the Essex County Club. Young Colledge, who's of the senior class at Harvard, proved himself a most delightful host for the occasion.

Another steeplechase affair held on the same night was the "spray party" which Mrs. Hiram T. Polson and Mrs. Albert C. Burrage, Jr., held at the Polson place in Wrentham.

As for the Myopia races—everyone seemed to agree that they were the "best ever." Albert Burrage, Jr., riding hard beating one of William Almy's horses, won the National Hunt Cup, which, of course, was the biggest event on the program.

There was plenty of cheering for "Pete" Scott, well when he captured the Myopia Challenge Cup in the last and most exciting race of the day. Mr. Scott, well, mounted on Byng, owned by Mrs. Bayard Warren, came in just a bit ahead of Albert Burrage, Jr., who rode William Almy's Ireland's Best. Mr. Burrage and Gerald Dempsey won the other two races.

I HEAR that Mr. and Mrs. William Amory Parker, with their two little children, have taken a villa on the Riviera, I believe. The latter place is close to Monte Carlo, though it is a far more quiet and conservative resort.

Mrs. Parker, who was formerly Miss Elise Ames, daughter of the Oliver Ames, has been in delicate health for some time, and it is because of the physician's orders that the family is spending the winter in a more of the somewhat Club coterie, and a Harvard man, is planning to bring his family back to these shores in the Spring. The town house is on Marlboro street, though the Parkers spend much of their time at the country estate in Bedford, Mass.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM DAVIES SOHMER. Mr. (Elaine Desere), are he is in Boston this winter, where they have leased the Frederic Brooks residence at No. 116 Beacon street. David Sohm, Newport down to, went down recently to be godmothers at the christening of a tiny daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Buller McCage Jr.

Both Miss Winslow and Mrs. Sohm, who was then Miss White, were attendants at the wedding which transformed daughter Kat Winslow—into the bride of young McCage. The christening was solemnized in St. Paul's Cathedral a year ago last June, just a few days after the groom obtained his shepherd's from Harvard.

MISS ANNA WINSLOW of Chestnut street and Mrs. Sohm, who was then Miss White, were attendants at the wedding which transformed daughter Kat Winslow—into the bride of young McCage. The christening was solemnized in St. Paul's Cathedral a year ago last June, just a few days after the groom obtained his shepherd's from Harvard.

Mrs. Lloyd Nichols (Helen Hart), a prominent member of the year-round colony at Myopia, was an interested spectator at the Myopia Hunt Club's steeplechase held at Topsfield.

DUSTIN FARNUM SEEKS DIVORCE, RENO REPORTS

Reno, Oct. 23.—In Dustin Farnum of "The Virginian" and "The Squaw Man," about to assume a role in real life of a husky band seeking severance of the marriage bond?

That question has been raised by the arrival here of the actor from Los Angeles. Rumor says he plans to make this city his best residence for at least six months, the legal period necessary before filing a divorce action.

Mrs. Farnum's beautiful actress-wife, Mrs. Mary Boone Conwell Farnum, is understood to be in New York. People are asking if it is true they have been separated for several months. Mrs. Farnum was formerly an actress. Her home was in Culiac, Cal.

GARLAND 'DIGS IN' FOR WINTER WITH THREE GIRL 'PROTEGES'

MORE DUE AT "LOVE FARM"

Canned Goods and Radical Books Fill Black Home, Shunned by Wife

North Carver, Oct. 24.—The cold blasts of a northeasterly gale sweeping over the Cape have driven Charles Garland and his young "spiritual proteges" of the opposite sex to "dig in" for the coming winter on his so-called "love farm" here.

Not even his torrid philosophy on sex could warm the dingy shacks in which the young man, who gave up his wife, children and millions for the unrestrained pursuit of his radical ideals, and his bed-haired followers here.

So "Barley," as he is called, was busy watching on shingles and plunging up cracks in the former hen-coop now occupied by the girls, and doing likewise to his own bleak cottage. Alice Edgerton and Dottie Hovey, the oldest of his devoted students, were flying about with canned goods and vegetables enough to stock an Arctic expedition.

NEW GIRL ON FARM

Not the least of the winter stores was a consignment of radical literature, both from the press, on sex, psychology, political economy and what not.

Two new arrivals on the farm are a girl, who declined to say anything other than that her name was "Peegs," and a young brother of Doris Benson, former member of the colony, who glared in expounding the views held by her beloved "Barley" on marriage.

He was more informative, however, about the farm itself, and pointed with pride to his first pumpkin crop and a remarkable yield of apples.

"The farm will go on as usual," he said, "we have done fairly well with it, and intend to support ourselves here during the winter. Other friends are expected to join us during the winter and they are welcome if they wish to come."

"Barley," however, could not see humor in the reporter's allusion to the seeming lack of provision for adequate heat that was bringing the guests out on Alice Edgerton's pump arms.

"DANCING GIRL" HAS ARTISTIC FEATURES

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

As a rule, musical revues that pass the cold test catch the public eye—and the eye alone. In the case of "The Dancing Girl" at the Shubert, except for a few fleeting glimpses of frothy young persons in regulation Winter Garden undress, and the much advertised and rather tame "living" curtain, the lure of the entertainment as you viewed it last evening rested securely upon substantial artistic grounds.

To be sure, there was Lou Holtz with his Al Jolson make-up and Eddie Cantor brand of songs to keep you down to the Broadway singing voice almost lifted you out of your chair and put you in a frame of mind where cheering seemed more appropriate than simple, modest applause.

Miss Hoffman gave character to "The Dancing Girl," for which there were level on warning and through which you were permitted to forget the wild October night that filled Tremont street.

Musical revues ought to have a fair measure of musical talent, but usually they do not, and Miss Hoffman makes the most of her situation with the rich quality of her voice.

In "The Dancing Girl" you were also spared the customary gaudy display of numbers and antiquated dancing. But there was dancing of a kind that is supposed to come from over the sea, and which was interpreted by a dark haired Spanish girl called Trini.

This young woman added her own bit to the artistic moments of the show and mingled with out much effort to pass himself on exceedingly friendly terms with the audience. Cantor's dances have a habit of drifting into monotonous movements, but not when done by Trini.

With twenty scenes and a riotous collection of costumes "The Dancing Girl" ran true to the Winter Garden tradition. In the past, the lure of the entertainment was from one scene to another there was little sense and much nonsense, with pictures fair to look upon and comedy that imposed no great mental strain upon its hearers. The score was by Sigmund Romberg, whose music reached a higher range of quality than you had any right to expect. That was one of the real joys of the performance.

SEE NEW CURE FOR HAY FEVER AND ASTHMA

Chicago, Oct. 24.—A million Americans who wheeze and sneeze with asthma and hay fever may find relief and permanent cure in a new method of treatment, being considered at the convention of the American College of Surgeons.

Asthma and hay fever are due to local infection, the new theory reveals. Infections in the nose or in an internal organ may be responsible for the sneezing and sneezing that annually sends thousands to various climates seeking relief.

It has been found that these infections, localized in some parts of the body, may cause either asthma or hay fever," said Dr. Paul Hoby of Toledo. "If they affect the bronchial tubes, we have asthma; if they affect the nose we have hay fever."

Surgical treatment or operation removes the cause of the trouble, surgeons stated. Up to this time protein vaccines have been employed. Vaccines are made of proteins obtained in foods or air-carried

Come on, you—

By the Veteran Motorist

LAST Saturday I drove down to Belmont Park, where I saw Zev and Papyrus in their big race for the International Cup. It was a great sight, and the better horse won. What marvelous strength and power each of the thoroughbreds displayed, as their skillful jockeys rated them along, Papyrus just hanging at his rival's quarters. Even my staid old heart beat the faster. Then came the swing around the turn into the stretch, when Sande literally unleashed the great Zev, and he thundered home five full lengths in the lead.

As I drove home through the welter of traffic, never getting lost in the shuffle, always swift in the get-away, quick on the pick-up, I could not but compare the Socony I was using with the great race I had just witnessed.

Socony Gasoline is a stout-hearted fuel. Like Zev, it has the stamina to run the long race and come home a winner. Like a thoroughbred, it is quick as a flash to start, has marvelous pick-up, and endless reserve of sustained power.

Any driver, whether of a big truck or a light sedan, can count on getting the utmost out of Socony Gasoline, especially when used in combination with Socony Motor Oil.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 24.—Surprised by a private detective in a room in a lodging house with a girl, a woman and two men, "Doctor" John H. Lee, a bogus surgeon, drew a revolver and fired a shot at the detective.

The bullet missed its mark and "Doctor" Lee, who is a bath robe and carrying his case of surgical instruments, fled.

After an all-night search, the "doctor" was discovered in a P. W. trucked lodging house. The place was surrounded by police inspectors.

LEAPS OUT WINDOW.

Clad in his bath robe and still clutching the surgical case in his hand, "Doctor" Lee leaped from a second-story window. He landed on his feet and started away on foot. Inspector James F. Rogers, known as "the sprinter" of the police department, went after him.

Rogers caught up with Lee after a chase through several Pawtucket streets and brought the "doctor" to the ground by a flying football tackle.

Lee, who was out on parole from State Prison, where he was serving a five-year sentence for illegal surgery, was re-arrested charged with assault on the private detective.

Franklin W. Powers, the private detective, is thanking his lucky stars that he is alive. The bullet intended for him passed under his arm, pierced a breast toaster and became embedded in the floor.

Lee had been reported as having viewed the terms of his parole and police and private detective surrounded the place. Two others entered the room. The McGinnis was questioned, but not arrested.

LEOMINSTER MAID BELIEVED ABDUCTED BY SUITOR NOW HUNTED BY POLICE

Leominster, Oct. 24.—A tall, dark man, with piercing, hypnotic eyes, has lured sixteen-year-old Eulodia Jovai away, according to Mrs. Arthur Jovai, the girl's mother.

Levin Jovai, thirty-two years old, is the man with the lumbent eyes, the mother declares, and a warrant has been issued for his arrest on the charge of abduction.

Julian, the piercing eye, according to Mrs. Jovai, has wooed Eulodia for the past two years, and in spite of all the objection of the girl's mother, was able to see the miss of sixteen almost every day at the movies.

There, so the mother's complaint continues, his strange fascination overcame the difference in ages, and he finally induced the girl to fly with him.

"Julian," said Mrs. Jovai, "was a most persistent admirer of my little daughter. He was so much after Eulodia that I told him to keep away. Eulodia was too young to think of marriage."

"Then I learned that in spite of everything I had said to both of them they were meeting secretly at the movies. I spoke to Eulodia again and she promised never to see him again."

2,000 DARTMOUTH MEN TO ROOT FOR SHEVLIN AT ARENA

FOODS WILL GRIND UP TAKE WARD BOUT

By JACK CONWAY
Two thousand Dartmouth students and alumni will root for Eddie Shevlin when the New England western-weight champion clashes with George Ward of Elizabeth, N. J. in their welterweight classic at the Suffolk A. A. show at Boston Arena on Friday night. They have asked the Suffolk Club to reserve an entire section. The Dartmouth men will begin arriving in Boston at noon Friday. They will take in the Shevlin-Ward bout in the evening and on Saturday journey over to the Stadium in the hope of seeing the Big Green eleven smash its way to a glorious victory over Harvard.

Shevlin is one of the most important figures at Harvard. For ten years he has been boxing director at Dartmouth. His brilliance as a boxer, combined with his ability as an instructor, have endeared him to thousands of Dartmouth men.

Naturally the followers of the Green have taken part over delight in Shevlin's ring triumphs. But to the joy that comes with a football victory over Harvard has been the thrill that Dartmouth men have received as Shevlin has won decisions over Dave Stude, Paul Joyce, George Ward, Ned Smeal and the others of the welterweight division.

Shevlin has the courage, determination, intelligence, good health and general fitness that is the gift to those who enter for long and the bills of Harvard.

SHEVLIN MOVES BEST IN IMPORTANT BOUT

At Dartmouth they advocate the doctrine of true fighting spirit into their athletes. This is why Dartmouth teams do their best work when their backs are against the wall. Anybody can win when he has all the advantages. It takes a real champion to come through with a victory when the odds are against one or when the struggle is even.

That's why you may expect to see great fight when Shevlin comes with Ward. It is one of these even battles where, a single punch may decide the conflict.

It will be the third meeting between these celebrated welterweights. Shevlin won the first bout, Ward the second.

SNACK PUNCH GAVE WIN TO WARD.

Ward, a master boxer, was out-fought in the opening engagement. In the second round Ward put over a sneak punch as Shevlin offered to shake hands in the first round. A left hook to the jaw almost knocked Eddie out. He came back and fought like a tiger, but the damage had been done by that single blow.

This one punch caused Shevlin to desire a return match more than anything else in the athletic world. Eddie's father, who was his manager, felt much like the players on a Dartmouth team who have been pushed back into their barracks under the shadow of their own goal posts.

Shevlin couldn't stop the Ward men in their last bout after the sneak blow had gone over. But he says he will do so next time. Furthermore he plans to carry on until he has reached a six-figure, which in this case is a victory.

You will find that eleven men alone

More than forty men have signed for the regatta which begins tomorrow.

Sinclair Named Zev After Oklahoma Friend

Muskegon, Okla., Oct. 24—Zev was named for Colonel J. W. Zev, for many years a resident of this city and a close friend of Harry F. Sinclair, owner of the conqueror of Papayus.

Colonel Zev was a railroad promoter and oil operator when he lived here. He was associated with Sinclair in the Teal Pot Dome development.

It was while they were in Wyoming that Sinclair told Colonel Zev that he intended to name his most promising colt after his friend.

Zev has had the odd backing of Muskegon race followers since he made his first appearance.

A number of Muskegon men were among the few that so he set the season. If the early season run for the turfville at griddon battles throughout the country may be taken as a criterion.

The total attendance in but five of the leading griddon engagements last week averaged 20,000. The Harvard-Holy Cross game attracted 25,000; the Michigan-Chio State game, 45,000; the Pennsylvania-Colonial game, 25,000; the Notre Dame Princeton game, 30,000 and the Syracuse-Pittsburgh game, 25,000.

When it is remembered nearly 200 college football contests were played last afternoon, such attendance is not surprising. The tremendous popularity of the sport is manifest.

Never, so early in the season, has the college pastime gained so great a hold upon the public. At Cambridge, the wooden stands formerly required only for the Harvard-Yale game, Harvard Princeton and Harvard Yale games, were almost filled, notwithstanding the fact that Boston College and Tufts staged contests nearby.

The Harvard-Dartmouth game last Saturday, tickets for which are restricted to graduates and undergraduates of the two institutions, will draw the stadium packed with a capacity with thousands who otherwise would witness the game.

A gathering of World's Series players is expected at the Yankee Stadium when Clarence Brown's team is expected to play the Yankees' team in a football game at the so-called Yankee stadium.

DARTMOUTH TEAMS STRONG

Coach H. B. Fisher is excited by paying some fair weather footballers for the remainder of the week. With the Dartmouth Wah-hoo-wah beginning to roll down on the boys from the North, Coach H. B. is worried a bit.

It is football time again at the college. The boys have been very busy for the past few weeks. They have been practicing hard and have been winning many games. They are now ready for the Dartmouth team.

Football Players at College Dance

Relations being friendly between Harvard and Dartmouth, the followers of both colleges believe in getting as much fun out of it as possible.

So the intercollegiate ball this year at the Copple Plaza promises to be one of the best social events of the football season.

The affair will be conducted both Friday and Saturday nights, and the list of officers and matrons looks like a section of the social register.

Members of both football teams will be guests Saturday night, while the musical and dramatic organizations of both colleges will contribute talent to the entertainment which will be part of the program.

It is a very nice affair and will be a great success. The boys are all very happy and are looking forward to the dance.

On Our Block

When the 400's Egyptian Ball Got Too Realistic —

Then Came the Crushing Snub from the Daring Dancer to the Dignified Dowager---"Mind Your Own Business! My Art Is Authentic, Aesthetic and Perfectly Proper!"

Two New York Society Debutantes, Leaning on "King Tut's Pup," Which, Despite Its Grotesque Spots, Caused Less of a Sensation Than Miss St. Denis at the Egyptian Ball.

WHERE ever such "goings-on" among the 400—right before everybody! Cleopatra snubbing a "mere slave!"

Marco Antony deserting the Queen of Egypt to pursue a slender dancing girl. The slave's husband, mutely peevish, vainly put out at his wife's popularity. The Alexandrian court agast and amused at the incident!

These are episodes for which you may scan the history of the Ptolemies in vain. Yet they DID happen. And all because New York society and the stage took up cudgels in the battle over "Art Versus Propriety."

Numerically, society had the best of it, though art was represented by the renowned dancer, Ruth St. Denis.

"Did you ever SEE such a costume?" whispered Mrs. J. Thos. Munda, 400 leader and arbiter of fashion, as she shivered (but only with indignation) under her pearls and silks.

"And did you ever even READ OF such gyrations?" whispered back Mrs. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, raising a most un-Egyptian forefinger to her wondering eyes.

"SOMEBODY should do SOMETHING about it!" muttered Mrs. Carroll Wainwright, with elevated brows and pursed lips. Her exclamation was echoed by a chorus of blue-blooded mutters, including such notable matrons as Mrs. Lytton Fox, Mrs. J. P. Satterlee and Mrs. Frank V. Storm.

Society, you see, after "starting something"—an elaborate Egyptian ball—had quailed about finishing it.

The climax, still regarded as fresh gossip behind Fifth Avenue's discreet doors, would never have occurred if only the blue-bloods hadn't felt such a charitable urge. But society folk are usually altruistic, so when someone suggested a benefit for the New York Auxiliary of the Women's International Alliance, there wasn't a dissenting voice.

It was to be a subscription affair. It was to be a "period" affair. And it was to mark the last step in gorgeousness of costume, richness of gems, authentic "atmosphere."

Thrones and runways and a courtyard were constructed in the Ritz-Carlton, to the ring of a pretty penny.

The committee smiled, rubbed its hands and awaited the great evening. In due course, the evening came. So did the "Nubians," beauties, orchestra—and Miss St. Denis.

Now, the idea of getting her to dance for the guests was not a hit-or-miss scheme to lend "tone" to the ball. It was a carefully arranged proceeding to clinch the "realism" of the Egyptian "atmosphere." For Miss St. Denis is famous, from India to Indianapolis, for her Oriental postures.

So far, so good. Mrs. Munda, regally garbed as Helen of Troy, beamed at the incoming, heavily subscribed guests. Mrs. Satterlee, in Tutankhamen tunic and opal-encrusted sandals, wore a look that seemed to say, "We said we'd show them, and we're doing it!"

But just then in wafted Ruth, and after Ruth, the deluge!

She was gowned. She was jeweled. She was graceful. But the gown, say, was a shawl of gold cloth, a violet-colored personating Cleopatra.

Fearing eyes, focusing on what ensued, detected a most striking disregard for historical facts. No sooner, add the tale-tellers, had Mr. Knight spied Miss St. Denis, undulating rhythmically in the soft glow of a "baby" spotlight, than he flew to the seducement of the danger floor. And there he stuck, like a bit of magnetized steel.

Cleopatra bore up nobly, even if her nose did lift slightly in disdain, according to onlookers. But there was another lifted nose in the vicinity. It belonged to Ted Shawn, Miss St. Denis' husband. Mr. Shawn, also noted as a dancer, had come to the ball with his wife. He was on the sidelines, too. So how could he balm noticing the attentions of Antony?

He couldn't. He didn't. But just as an irate glow appeared in his eye, Fate, in the form of a poorly dowager, cut the knot of cross-purposes (into which the situation had resolved itself. Miss St. Denis had just executed a particularly amusing writhing (on strictly Egyptian lines) when a white-haired matron advanced to her and quietly remonstrated.

"Really, really, my dear," she began in a low tone, "realism is no doubt desirable, but don't you think this is just a little—well—too—ummm—realistic?"

Was Miss St. Denis abashed? Did she stammer, blush, call for her cloak and a taxi, beat a retreat? She did not.

"See here, Mrs. —," she retorted, "it's all very well for you to take that stand, but it won't go—with me. We on society people may regard dancing as a lark, something to amuse yourself with for five minutes. For me, it's as serious as death or taxes. It's my life work—an art form to which I've devoted years of study."

"You wanted the 'real thing.' Well, you're getting it. And now, please, be good enough to leave me to my job and attend to your own—whatever that may be, aside from censoring artists who are laboring to amuse you!"

Just what happened next? Ah, as to that, the Paul Pry of Fifth Avenue are demurely mute. But whether the dowager broke down or the ball broke up, one thing is certain.

At our next charity fete—so says New York society, with only a few dissenting voices—realism will NOT run rampant. And if it MUST be a "period" function, let us choose not ancient Egypt, but the Arctic region!
